OTUNBA KEHINDE ALMAROOF OLOYEDE: A Great Achiever of Repute

A Lagos based socialite and real estate businessman, Otunba Kehinde Almaroof Oloyede, is the son of the late former Iyaloja of Oshodi, Alhaja Taiyelolu Oloyede.

Alhaja Taiyelolu Oloyede was the first Iyaloja General of Oshodi-Isolo local government, Chairperson Lagos State Market Advisory Council (1996-1999) and first female councillor in Oshodi-Isolo under old Mushin local government in 1976.

His father, Pa Morufu Ayanbola Oloyede, died on July 14, 2015 and was buried at his New Oko-Oba, Agege, Lagos residence on July 15, 2015, according to Muslim rites.

Born on December 18, surprisingly, Oloyede with his twin brother equally share birthday with his mother and one of his daughters, Omolewa Oloyede.

While growing, Kendoo as he is fondly called, became the MD/CEO of Kendoo Investment, a business he set up.

He has been regarded as one of the most visible players in the grassroots politics of Oshodi-Isolo local government area of Lagos State. The youthful and impressionable Oloyede has been there and done virtually all in the arena of politics in the local government and even beyond.

Before his emergence as the Chairman of Oshodi-Isolo LG, Oloyede had contested and lost in his bid to become local government chairman and House of Representatives member in Oshodi-Isolo constituency I.

He contested under the platform of Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) in 2007.

Until his sojourn into politics, he was a private property developer.

OLOYEDE AS NEW CHAIRMAN OF OSHODI-ISOLO LG

In 2021, Oloyede reignited his ambition in the politics of Oshodi-Isolo. He finally contested for the local government chairman under the umbrella of the All Progressives Congress (APC) and won.

100 DAYS IN OFFICE

Within his 100 days in office as chairman of the local government, Oloyede had recorded so many achievements in infrastructural development and other sectors.

ROADS REHABILITATION AND CONSTRUCTION

On assumption of office on July 27, this year, the council boss made the first move to tackle head-on the myriads of bad roads he inherited from his predecessors. The bad state of roads had led to collapse and or relocation of many businesses to the disadvantage of the local government, the gateway to Lagos and Nigeria as a whole, considering its proximity to the Muritala Muhammed International Airport right.

The council boss during his electoral campaign had promised to deliver 20 roads for the people of Oshodi. He eventually delivered 24 and still counting this feat was well applauded by the residents and other observers.

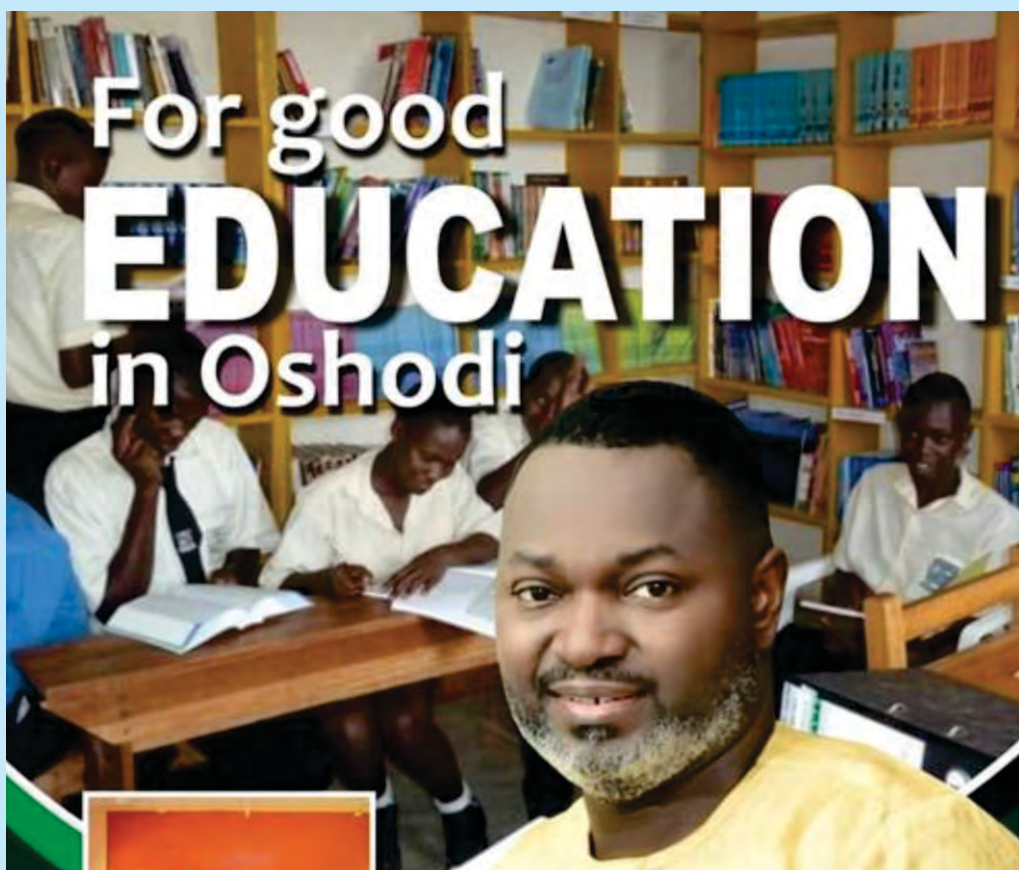

WATER PROJECT

Oloyede has also beamed his positive searchlight on potable drinking water for all residents. He constructed 12 pipe-borne hole water across all the seven wards of the local government. The water project is solar-powered and community centred management system.

EDUCATION

The council helmsman has declared a state of emergency on education as he decried the deplorable state of the public schools in the local government. As a way of ensuring the schools get adequate attention, he asked for first-hand information and assessment of the schools. He also gave over 400 free GCE forms to indigent residents of the council. Otunba Oloyede, while trying to fulfil his electoral promises on improving education standards through the digitalisation of learning, presented digital tools which include walkie-talkie, smart flat-screen television set, projector, printer, stabilizer and others to Bolade Junior Grammar school. The school was declared the best school in Nigeria.

WELFARE FOR THE ELDERLY AND WIDOWS

Part of his first official task was his benevolence to the aged and widows as he gave out different food packages to them

HEALTH

Worried by the comatose nature of the health facilities in the council area, Oloyede swung into action, purchased two new ambulances for the use of the various health care centres in the council with a promise to deliver on other decaying infrastructures in the hospitals.

He has also started working to bring a general hospital to the local government. Just as the nation marked another edition of the national immunisation day, Oloyede announced the construction of a new primary health care centre at the Ogunoloko ward of the council. He also presented the new ambulance buses to the health centres for use in conveying patients in the event of emergencies.

ENVIRONMENT

In his unrelenting drive for a cleaner and safer environment, Otunba Oloyede has, within 100 days in office, purchased a truck for waste management in the local government.

As a true grassroots administrator, the council boss has demonstrated his support for inclusiveness as he ensured that the Community Development Committee, marketers, artisans and the youths are integral part of his government.

In his first 100 days, Oloyede has demonstrated that good governance is possible even in the face of hardship and internal political wrangling especially when the leader has the political will to put smiles on the faces of the electorate.

AWARD

Based on his giant strides, Oloyede emerged best performing local government chairman in Lagos State on roads rehabilitation and construction.

The Award which was part of the first-year lecture of a communication outfit, Pitch Communication and Alimosho TV was held at the prestigious Radisson Hotel, GRA Ikeja, Lagos.

The outfit disclosed that it decided to bestow the award on the chairman owing to the number of roads he has initiated and completed during his one hundred days
