Goalkeeper electrocuted at betting shop

By Olushola Okewole, Saheed Afolabi

Tragedy struck at Eko Akete plaza last Thursday as a key member of the Ejigbo All Stars Football Club, Taiwo Akinlusi, popularly known as Sir Tee among his football fans was electrocuted to death.

until his death he was the goalkeeper of the club.

Fans described him as a gentle peace-loving sports man who got on well with everybody.

Echonews Sports reporter Saheed Afolabi recalled that he joined his club to participate in the All Stars League last year but his club was knocked out in the preliminaries.

Akinlusi's head mistakenly touched a live wire while he was descending the stairs of the plaza after staking his bet.

Eko Akete plaza is located at Ile-Epo Bus Stop.

An eye witness, Mr. Abiodun Adaranijo, who spoke with ECHONEWS explained that while coming down the staircase after playing his bets at the plaza, the unsuspecting deceased had touched a naked live wire dangling with his head.

He said he (the deceased) would have bended his head to avoid the wire but he did not take note of the clumsy wires at the time he was descending the stairs.

According to Adaranijo, it was not the first time Akinlusi would pass through the staircase and bypass the wires even on that fateful day, but due to the fact that he was in hurry, to go back home after placing stakes, he forgot to bend his head. The remains have been deposited in the mortuary at the General

The late Taiwo Akinlusi (Sir Tee) who was electrocuted at Ile-epo bus stop plaza

Hospital, Isolo.

The chairman of Ailegun Community Development Association (CDA), Barr. Bimbo Olawale, who confirmed the incident, described it as unfortunate, saying the residents have always been warned to be conscious of their electrical wiring to avoid such incidents.

"We always warn people to be security conscious. We tell them that security include anything that can affect human life such as electricity in term of wiring.

"The incident was unfortunate one and we pray not to experience such again but we must always be conscious. The incident has affected the power supply in the community, the supply to the area has to be switched off but we have contacted Ikeja Electric to come and fix it."

Efforts to get the reaction of the owners of the plaza and the police were unsuccessful as at press time.

NGOs, Access Bank distribute relief packages to PWDs

By Damilola Kushimo

No fewer than 100 Persons With Disabilities (Pwds) in Isolo Local Council Development Area (LCDA) benefitted from the Covid-19 Response Project organised by Estrategico Consult, Stanforte Edge and Access Bank.

The event which was facilitated by the council leader, Hon. Remy Shittu Remy was held in the council Secretariat with strict adherence to social distancing and other physical measures against the spread of the virus.

According to the project lead of Estrategico Consult, Oluwaseyi Sodola, the alarming rate at which Covid-19 cases are being recorded prompted the body to come together and educate a section of the society especially the physically challenged people on how to effectively play their parts in fighting against the virus.

Sodola said the people living with disabilities were targeted with the palliatives since they were the disadvantaged ones who suffered the effects of the Covid-19 most as they could not fend for themselves during the pandemic.

"We realised that they can't do the normal things they did for living, that is why we've come together to educate them on how they can play their parts in defeating Covid-19 by observing all preventive measures by themselves or with the help of those around them. We also support them with relief items as a way of contributing our own quota to their welfare as well as fighting against the spread of the virus in the community," he said.

Commending the organisers, the council Chairman, Hon. Shamsudeen Olaleye who was represented by the council Secretary, Hon. Emmanuel Olojede, said donation of relief packages especially to the physically challenged people could never be too much at this trying times.

He said: "We have been open to NGOs to assist the government. This gesture, as displayed by the organisers, is a positive one especially by focusing mainly on the PWDs. We hope this will inspire other NGOs to see that from the little they have they should be willing to give back to the community."

Speaking on behalf of the beneficiaries, the chairman of PWDs in Isolo LCDA, Mr. Yusuf Agbabiaka, appreciated the organisers of the programme, disclosing that it was the first time the physically challenged people in the council area would receive such support from corporate bodies since the virus broke out. Items in the stimulus package included beans, garri, rice, seasoning, noodles, facemask among others.

Organisation takes educational materials to students' doorsteps

Damilola Kushimo

The Lagos State chapter of the United State Exchange Programme through the Alumni Association of International Visitor Leadership Project (IVLP) has begun house-to-house distribution of educational materials to 120 students of Ajumoni Senior Grammar School, Isolo Local Council Development Area (LCDA).

The materials distribution, according to the council leader, Hon. Remy Shittu Remy; an IVLP alumnus who facilitated the programme to the school, was part of the graduation ceremony for Senior Secondary School 1 and 2 students who participated in the 6-week mentorship programme held in the school before Covid-19 lockdown was declared.

Remy said the ideal thing was to organise graduation ceremony for the students after the 6-week mentorship programme but could not be held as Covid-19 lockdown commenced in the last week of the programme and all activities had to be suspended.

He said instead of waiting too long for the schools to resume, the organisers concluded to distribute the materials to them to be able to study at home.

One of the recipients of the materials, Miss Jenifa Okoro, expressed heartfelt gratitude for bringing down such gift to her residence, saying the educational materials which included exercise books, past questions and mathematical set would encourage her to study more.

the lockdown, these books and past questions will also help him to study harder."

A Biology teacher, Mrs. Adenike Oremade, who oversaw the presentation of the materials, appreciated the international association while imploring the students to take advantage of the opportunity they received through the programme.

Covid-19: Isolo LCDA partners CDAs in fresh move to check spread

Damilola Kushimo

Following the persistent increase in the number of Covid-19 positive cases in Oshodi-Isolo LGA, the chairman of Isolo Local Council Development Area (LCDA), Hon. Shamsudeen Olaleye (Shammeh) has flagged off a new sensitisation campaign against the virus. Tagged "Intensive Advocacy and Sensitization on Transition to Home Based Care of Asymptomatic or Mild positive Case Of COVID-19", the programme was unveiled during an emergency meeting with the Community Development committee (CDC) at the council Secretariat.

Olaleye stressed the need to rewrite the narratives of the virus in the council as directed by the state government.

"Recent figures have placed Oshodi-Isolo LGA among the 18 LGAs with prevailing cases of COVID-19 and as a government, we have a responsibility to re-write the narratives." It was easy to monitor cases at the early stage. But the need not to create panic prompted us not to raise red flag when the number started rising. We must face the hard fact. that COVID-19 is here with us. We must change our mindset. COVID-19 is real," said the council chairman, informing that henceforth, the meeting will be regular.

Equally speaking, the CDC chairman, Mr. Adesegun Olatunde, said the emergency meeting was summoned to sensitise Community Development Associations (CDAs) and community leaders on measures to curtail the wide spread of COVID-19 cases in the council area.

According to him, as the lowest level of government, the CDC also has a great role to play in the fight against coronavirus hence, the need to sensitise the residents through each CDA on how to tame community spread of the virus and also the transition into home based cure for asymptomatic cases of the virus since isolation centres are running out of space.

He therefore implored the residents to keep observing all preventive measures to curtail the spread of the virus, affirming that the Primary Healthcare Centres PHCs have been equipped with trained personnel and equipments needed to effectively handle asymptomatic cases of.

He said: "People are no longer observing the laid down guidelines thinking that the pandemic is over. This is far from being true. That is why the number of the infected patients is rising daily. We are the ones transmitting this virus from person to person."

Covid-19 pandemic, rain delay our construction projects - Isolo LCDA

Damilola Kushimo

Unexpected challenges of COVID-19 and the onset of rains are responsible for the delay in meeting the deadlines of the construction projects put in place by Isolo local council authority.

Secretary to the Local Government, Hon. Emmanuel Olojede said one of such projects is the rehabilitation of Moshalashi Street which started in February and was initially slated to be completed in April but still ongoing in July. Due to the fact that the work has been delayed beyond the scheduled time, the residents have started complaining especially as they have to battle some difficulties on the road.

But Olojede allayed their fears noting that the rehabilitation work has to be delayed when the Federal and State governments ordered that some sectors be locked down to curtail community spread of coronavirus.

While appealing to the residents to be patient, Olojede assured them that the local government was trying to put a legacy project on the street, affirming that the contractor has been working according to specification given to him.

According to him, the work on the street is in two parts - the concrete part which is the drains on both sides of the road, and the walkway which is ongoing.

He noted that people wanted to see the completely tarred road which is the last segment of the job, explaining that that could not be achieved without completing the drainages and the walkway that the contractor was currently working on.

"The residents will have to bear with us based on the fact that the rains are here, the workers cannot work at their full capacity as they could before the rainy season. They have to take cognisance of the weather and much work is still on the concrete part.

"We initially calculated that the project would not take more than three months before Covid-19 but, it was the second month of working on the project when the lockdown was declared to contain the spread of the virus. It is unfortunate that after the lockdown the rain set in and automatically we have to be calculate every activity. They are working according to the weather and they are using limited staff members in accordance with the government social distancing order. The residents should just bear with us."

Asked whether the road would be part of the projects expected to be commissioned to commemorate the third year anniversary of the council chairman on Saturday, July 23, 2020, Olojede said the weather forecast has predicted heavy rains for July and August and based on that, the construction work might not be completed before the third year anniversary.

"We are not rushing it, we are not doing a shoddy job. That project is one of the legacy projects of the chairman. It is a special project that is in the heart of the chairman. So, we are not rushing it. The contractor is working according to our specification. If it cannot be finished before the third year anniversary, it will be done as soon as possible. We want it to last for years and also be a standard road for the incoming administration to emulate," he said.

Grassroots sport stakeholders back postponement of Africa Nations Cup

By Saheed Afolabi

Sports stakeholders in Oshodi-Isolo have supported Confederation of African Football (CAF) for postponing the 2021 African Cup of Nations (AFCON) till 2022. The 33rd edition of the tournament, which was initially scheduled to hold between January and February 2021, was rescheduled for June/July 2021 and later postponed till January 2022 due to Covid-19 pandemic ravaging the world. "Health is our number one priority, we must remain vigilant," CAF President, Ahmad Ahmad had said during a news conference announcing the postponement of the tournament. Commenting the CAF's decision, the organiser of the annual CY Unity Cup, Cyprian Ukpai said it was a good decision considering the way coronavirus keeps spreading across the world. He said: "Well it's a good development because the pandemic is still very much around and the risk level is high. I commend the decision taken by CAF to postpone it as it will enable the host country to take her time to complete all the stadia to be used for the tournament with quality finishing. It will also enable the participating countries to prepare very well and scout for more players for the tournament." The CEO of Lagos City League, Kingsley Mba said "Because of this coronavirus, most continental tournaments which were supposed to hold this year have been postponed till mid next year, examples are the Union of European Football Associations (UEFA) and South American Football Confederation (CONMEBOL). "CAF has done well by following the footsteps of other continental football federations to postpone AFCON. You know that some African countries still do not have the necessary equipment to curtail this virus, that's why some of our football leagues were cancelled." Coach of MS Success FC, Musbahu Oseni, said: "It is a good idea because most of the leagues in Africa have been cancelled due to coronavirus pandemic which is still very much around because cases are increasing everyday. So, moving it to January 2022 will also enable all participating countries to have time for a better preparation." The coach of Ysdron Sport FC, Ayodeji Adebayo, said CAF has made the right decision.

Liverpool fans excited for winning 19th Premier League trophy

By Saheed Afolabi

Liverpool fans in Oshodi-Isolo Local Government Area (LGA) joined their counterparts across the world to celebrate as their club won its 19th Premier League trophy. Liverpool FC which was founded in 1892 won its first Premier League trophy in 1901 and won its 19th trophy in the 2019/2020 season. Jubilating, Osita, a Liverpool fan in Ejigbo local council area said: "I am a Liverpool fan and I have been supporting Liverpool since 2001. I am so happy seeing Liverpool crowned champions of England for the 2019/2020 season. It's an honour and an achievement for me to witness such an historic event in Liverpool history. The players and coaching staff have made the fans proud by accomplishing the goal of the season. I can't be more joyous than this because this is the beginning of many great achievements for Liverpool." Yusuf Showemimo said: "It is but an honour and a great privilege to witness a magnanimous historical moment in my club's illustrious history after 30 years of endless wait for the premier league title. I really want to thank the entire team (players), club's coaches and technical crew, staffs, amazing fans and to express my heartfelt ecstasy to celebrate with my fellow fans/supporters for this glorious moment. It is a true privilege and honour to be one of the loyal fans of this great club who stood through thick and thin just to witness this remarkable and unforgettable day. Habeeb Balogun, a resident of Isolo said: "This has been the reward for an outstanding display of all seasons. Remember that we lost the league title to Manchester City by a point last season, so winning the premier league trophy after 30 years is an awesome feelings and a dream come true because we have waited so long for this and all the years of hurt have been worth it and I believe this current Liverpool team will go down as the greatest side in premier league history." Yemi Fortune said as a Liverpool fan, he was excited because Liverpool lost the league title last season by a point but this season, Liverpool was crowned champions of England.

Ejigbo SLG rewards tricycle driver for returning lost phone

By Olushola Okewole

For returning a phone forgotten in his tricycle, Mr. Nwayaru Ezeaja was the proud recipient of N5,000 and a pledge of a brand new phone on Wednesday last week, thanks to the Secretary to the Local Government, Ejigbo LCDA, Mr. Paul Fregene.

Mr. Fregene's wife had forgotten her Samsung phone worth about N55,000 in Mr. Ezeaja's tricycle following a trip from Jakande Gate, Ejigbo to her residence at Bucknor.

When it was discovered that the phone was missing, the SLG said he immediately put a call through the lost phone and surprisingly Ezeaja picked it and offered to return it immediately.

According to Fregene, "If all we see in the society is bad attitude, it may be difficult for our community to get better. But if we celebrate the good attitude like this in a society where virtually everybody is ready to take possession of another person's properties, there would be motivation for others to emulate the good gesture," he said.

In his account, Ezeajah explained that he picked the woman around 8:45pm as lone passenger from Jakande Gate to her residence at Bucknor and went back to the park not knowing that the phone was in his Marwa.

He added that another passenger he picked did not also notice the phone in the tricycle because it was laid on the foot mat. He said he was at Ile-epo bus stop around 9:52pm when the phone rang and he picked it and told the caller to come and collect it.

Asked why he returned the phone, the driver, who claimed to be an author, said he was brought up to always see things that is not his own as not his own, the attitude which has been part of him all the way.

Ezeaja said he currently has no phone of his own but that would not lead him to take what belonged to somebody else's.

Ezeaja, who said he is an agent of AIICO Insurance company resident of Alaafia Avenue Street, Ejigbo, explained that he only engaged in commercial riding to feed his family

Fans celebrate Unstoppable Sport Foundation @ 10

By Saheed Afolabi

Sport enthusiasts and fans of Unstoppable Sport Foundation were in joyous mood, celebrating the Foundation as it clocked 10 years last week.

Speaking on the 10th anniversary of the Foundation, the CEO, Yemi Fortune, said the journey was supported by God Almighty.

Analysing its achievement so far, he said the Foundation has won two trophies, emerged winner in Evergreen championship in 2012, came second in MFM Cup in 2013 and emerged the winner in Oshodi Sports Festival in 2015.

On the challenges faced, he said getting sponsors was the biggest challenge that the foundation has been facing, saying nonetheless, the football academy has been a standard one many players reckon with in Oshodi-Isolo LGA.

He said: "We give glory to God but it has been a challenging one to say because when we started, nobody gave us a chance. The vision and aim of the foundation is to raise talented sport men to actualise their dreams and by the grace of God, we now have players in different parts of the world which include Turkey, France, USA, England, Spain and Uzbekistan. Some of the players have even given back to the foundation by donating training equipment to encourage the players at the foundation."

"The biggest challenge we are facing at the foundation is how to get sponsors which has been an herculean task. We need corporate organisations to show more support for the grassroots sports by building sport villages.

"At Unstoppable football academy, we have a good structure and pattern that set us apart from the rest and any player that wants to join us must abide by the principles guiding the foundation."

NATA pledges to evacuate vehicles

By Olushola Okewole

In response to the directive by the Oboye Pipeline Community Development Association (CDA), the National Automobile Technicians Association (NATA), has promised to remove all abandoned vehicles in its care from the community.

The CDA had last week told the mechanics working in the community to evacuate the abandoned vehicles which have been turned to hideouts of miscreants to perpetrate their criminal activities.

The CDA chairman, Alhaji Fatai Ayinla, had warned that failure to do so might attract sanction, saying keeping abandoned vehicles across the community was dangerous to the security. According to him, there is need to evacuate the vehicles immediately to clear the community so that any heinous activity would be easily noticed.

Reacting, the NATA chairman, Orilowo Ejigbo Unit, Mr. Semiu Atanda, said the association would make sure all the abandoned vehicles are removed from the community sooner.

Atanda, who said there was no rancour between the mechanics and the CDA, said although many of those vehicles parked in the community were not really abandoned, the mechanics would heed the CDA's warning and directive.

"We are going to abide by the CDA's directive on the so termed abandoned vehicles. I will personally monitor and make sure all the vehicles are cleared off the community. We shall respond to the request of the CDA accordingly.

"Meanwhile, I must tell you that the CDA doesn't really understand our job as technicians because some of the vehicles seen as abandoned by the CDA are not actually abandoned but are under repair and some could take a long time depending on the fault and response from the owners. But all the same, we shall comply with the directive and make sure the vehicles are evacuated from the community," he said.

Hoteliers expect reservations to cruise this week

By Sunday Ogundiran

A slow but steady increase in reservations by travelers is the expectation of hotels, says Mr. Kelvin Duru the Managing Director of Parklane Hotels & Suites who spoke with ECHONEWS on the opportunities the Wednesday July 8 reopening will give.

"Hoteliers will now enjoy their existence in the community. We can't do without the travellers who we haven't seen since the inception of the nationwide, airport lockdown.

Duru said although the government lifted the shutdown of hotels last month, activities remained low key and patronage was low.

He said the resumption of flights will bring new impetus adding that competition for business will encourage hotel managers to make long term plans to sustain customers loyalty and build on new style of employee relations to manage the business.

CDA asks police to remove unused vehicles

By Edith Igbokwe

The BAOO (Balogun, Adeoye, Olasunbo Okunowa) Community Development Association (CDA) Bolade Oshodi has sent a reminder to the Akinpelu Police station to evacuate their abandoned vehicles along Olasumbo/Akinpelu street. The removal would enable the trucks of the Lagos State Waste Management Authority (LAWMA) vehicles operate smoothly in that axis. The letter was delivered to the station on Tuesday 30th June 2020 and acknowledged by inspector Monday Akande, since the DPO was not on seat as at time. Information contained in the letter stated that two police vehicles belonging to Akinpelu police abandoned on Olasumbo/Akinpelu streets prevents LAWMA from performing their statutory functions of picking up community refuse and denying other vehicles access to the streets.

Akinpelu police vehicles abandoned on Olasumbo street that prevents LAWMA activities in the community

According to the letter: "We write this letter to your office in respect of the abandoned Akinpelu police vehicles, one with registration number NPF3074D and the other without number which causes unwarranted obstruction of vehicular access to Olasumbo /Akinpelu Streets, preventing LAWMA vehicles from gaining access to remove the heaps of refuse which may lead to the spread of avoidable epidemic in that environment." The CDA chairman,

Comrade Ajao Adewale disclosed to Echonews that the abandoned police vehicles has been there for about two years now and that the LAWMA agents complained of its disturbance to their services which prompted the community to act by sending the police a letter to that effect.

Community jubilate over installation of street lights

By Edith Igbokwe

Ariyori/Ijaiye Community Development Association (CDA) Mafoluku Oshodi has expressed their joy that they are able to achieve the installation of street lights in their community. The community leader and residents are excited over the functioning of street lights championed through the collective efforts the community members as a contribution towards community development. The project gulped more than one hundred thousand naira to get ten poles within a street illuminated for security at night. Such streets includes Branco and Ariyori which has been successfully lit up with street lights, remaining Ijaiye street yet undone. According to the CDA chairman, Alhaji Rasaq Mabinuori statement: "The project cost over one hundred thousand naira and the funds was realised by internal affairs (residents) contributions though, the street lights is not like the government ones but, we are proud that we championed the cause and achieved it." Mabinuori explained that the project came up as a result of the threat from the one million boys (Miscreants) that wrote to invade Mafoluku during the lockdown periods in April and the warning to the government to stop burning tyres as watch light so, the community decided to contribute towards having street lights that would solve the issue permanently. He disclosed that Branco street started the project and Ariyori picked it up and now Ijaiye proposed to commence the installation so that they will not be left out. Residents of Branco and Ariyori streets enjoys street light as a result of their collective efforts put together to achieved a common goal of the community.

CDA desilts gutters to free floods

By Edith Igbokwe

To maintain a flood-free community throughout the rainy periods, the Fabukade Community Development Association (CDA) Shogunle Oshodi, Chief Tunde Tobun evacuated the broken gutters of the Nigeria Airforce (NAF) base along Fabukade/Ayinke obstructing water passage. The NAF gutters was reported to has been old and weak in strength to remain standing erect before it suddenly collapsed overnight after heavy rain, leaving its particles inside the gutters. The incident got the community members worried because the effect will be felt more during the rainy periods, when it will be difficult for water to flow easily and then lead to floody environment. Chief Tobun offered to evacuate the particles from the gutters to avoid flood situations after rainfalls. His words: "I cannot watch the community to go into floods most especially at this
